The main character in this story is Jackson, a very ordinary guy who has a very unusual life. He works by day and has a normal life in it. After 20 years of living his life in spite of the changing climate, he packs his bags and leaves the only world he has ever known. He has decided to end his life on a planet he has never been to. It is his final day on Earth. You, the player, enter Jackson's mind as you guide him through a surreal reality in which he is the protagonist and you will discover his life as a video game. In collaboration with media designer Daniele Bidermani we conceived the character and the world of this game. With a variety of interviews and insights from several specialists, we combined data from industry research and scientific studies with anecdotal data and multiple illustrations to create a vivid and immersive universe. That is why this game is not just a game. It is a narrative experience: a story told in layers of projections that allow the player to piece together the details of his character's life and his own worldview. Gameplay is structured around the strong engine of the Flashback mechanics. Each scene begins with the flash back of a moment from Jackson's life: a decision, a memory, a thought. Your task is to guide Jackson through his decisions, memories and thoughts while in reality the three will always be interconnected. To do that, you will interact with objects. You will touch them, study them, turn them over and back, change their position, move them, etc. You will interact with small details of the environment such as books, newspapers, chairs, doorknobs, lamps, light bulbs, doors, etc. These objects will give you hints about what is going on in the world and open doors or possible questions that will help you to make a choice. During his life Jackson holds items that have special value to him: a key to his home, a letter from his girlfriend, a pocket watch. They will also appear in the game as clues for the player to find. The choices the player makes in the game will affect the ending sequence. Gameplay includes three elements: Discovering clues about Jackson's life Taking action Living in the world 1. Discovering Clues You, as the player, will take over Jackson's role, get into his head and guide him in the game. The real Jackson will go through c9d1549cdd with Sangheili Last week we had the chance to sit down with several Armored Warfare developers and sit together to discuss the Armored Warfare team's achievements in 2015 and specifically take a look at the Sangheili Sector battlefields. More specifically, we will talk about some of the things that were accomplished by the Armored Warfare team in 2015 and give you a preview of the upcoming Sangheili Sectors update slated to be released in January 2016. To get started, let's step back one year from now and think what have been the main features added in the previous year for the Sangheili Sectors: Addition of the Bayon system for both the Type-9 heavy and FV215b light Support vehicles. Sangheili-type systems. Sangheili heavy assault carriers were featured from the second update. The Lagnak battleship dock was released and expanded into a defense base with strong counter-battery systems. The original 7th Armoured Division (S), the 1st Wing, renamed 10th Wing and 14th Wing. In addition, the Sangheili and eventually their new leaders could be found in the midst of the implementation of the intended artillery resources. As the most sought after commodity in the original game, the situation was pretty imbalanced between the sides. On the one hand, it was possible to amass a strong artillery force in quantity and therefore absorb everything that the other side could throw at him because of sheer ease. On the other hand, the host's artillery could overwhelm the resources of the opponent too fast, leaving him stuck on a brutal price/quality ratio of his buildings and killing those who were already building his artillery. Now let's have a look at what has been added in the 2015 update. Added two new Sangheili heavy vehicles. A variant for 4th, 5th and 10th Wing. Two trailers that built into each type of wing's bayon can house any of the heavy vehicles of the crew. Fully modeled Auxiliary Carrier 1000. Fully modeled auxiliary heavy hovercraft. Replaced the 1st wing with the 10th Wing as well as modified its artillery so that it gets the SAC-7. Replaced the 1st Wing with the 10th Wing as well as modified its artillery so that it gets the SAC-7. 1.0.1
